The Skin of St. Cecilia.
The Paris correspondent of the Philadelphian Inquirer, in his latest letter, writes:

It seem probable that a very curious and interesting affair will soon be brought before the Courts. It is known that the famous Cardinal Richelieu was buried in the Chapel of the Sorbonne where his tomb is still to be seen.—During the days of terror, the infatuated mob tore open the Cardinal's grave, in common with thousands of others separated the head from the body, and carried it through the streets stuck on a pike; this head subsequently fell into the possession of a Deputy of those days, who bequeathed it to his son. The latter of course attaches high value to his pike, obstinately refusing to give it up to the State, which claims that the skull of the illustrious Minister of Louis XIII should be placed among the public reliques of the Empire.

It was at first attempted to settle the controversy without appealing to the tribunals; but as the present possessor of the Cardinal's head is determined not to give it up, without being forced to do so, it is said that the authorities are about to bring a suit against him, to compel its restoration; and there seems very little doubt that he will lose his cherished head at least.—When Richelieu ruled France, and the weak king, his nominal master, with a rod of iron, holding the lives and fortunes of the most powerful in the hollow of his hand, little did he dream that the day would come when his skull would be carried through Paris on a pike, treasured by a citizen deputy, and retained by Government to be placed under a glass case, perhaps, in the museum of the Louvre or the Hotel de Chirry!

A Dishonest Knave.

The Terre Haute Journal of the 16th notices our late conversation in an article, a part of which we quote in another place (with the withering reply of the Express), and charges that "Gen. Steele, Sammigall, Coffin and other prominent leaders of the party, took occasion to blow off an exceedingly long and intensely Abolition Plat-form." We shall waste few words in reply. Firstly, Gen. Steele was not on the committee on resolutions; and did not contribute a word or a syllable to them. This is a falsehood number one. Secondly, Coffin was not in the State at the time of the convention, and never saw the resolutions. This is falsehood number two. Thirdly: There is not a sentence, word or syllable in the resolutions containing an abolition sentiment, which Col. Cook easily knows to be the fact. Therefore this is falsehood number three.

To show his dishonesty and his willful intention to misrepresent the spirit and the sentiment of the resolutions which he stigmatizes as "intensely abolition," it is but necessary to say that he did not and dare not quote a single resolution in the series; and we now defy him, with all his skill in the black art, to quote of that series a resolution which, by any possible construction, he can torture into "abolitionism." If he can do so, then he may be able to cover his calumnious retreat as best he can. If he cannot do so, he stands denuded in all his horrible deformity as a slanderer and calumniator, with his dishonest purposes bared to the gaze of the public, whom he has attempted to deceive—Rockville Republican.

A correspondent of the Lafayette Courier, writing from Indianapolis, says:

One chapter in the secret history of the last Legislature, and one which should cause a blush of shame to mankind, the checks of the parties implicated, was the bargain and sale in reference to the office of State Printer, by which John S. Davis, who assumed to be an independent Whig par-excellence, and too good and pure for a modern politician, sold out to John C. Walker, the consideration being that the New Albany Tribune, a paper belonging either directly or indirectly in a large degree to the said Davis, should receive a certain per cent of the profits of the State work. It is said, and it is to be hoped truly said, that the Tribune is in a fair way to lose its share of the plunder, and Mr. Davis his pay, owing to a refusal on the part of Walker, to comply with the terms of the "business transaction." Truly, honest men might well rejoice if some of the parties to this transaction should fail to reap the gains for which they plotted.

Gov. Willard Dounced.
Several Democratic papers have severely censured Gov. Willard on account of his action in the State Prison matter, and we notice that he has also been formally denounced by a Democratic Convention in Allen county. The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That we approve and endorse the course of the State Prison Commissioners in resisting the arbitrary attempt of Governor Willard to compel them to yield their honest judgement to his dictation; that we condemn the course of Governor Willard as anti-Democratic, unjust, and ingrateful to the people; that we desire every man to serve, reflect, and make "resounding duty" before they decide, "that every voice for the State Prison Commissioners is to be heard." All who confide in the wisdom and honesty of this class, who choose to investigate for themselves are now of one mind; this is important and useful.

This is the language—it is rather personal—which the famous Victor Hugo holds in reference to Napoleon's amnesty. "Nobody will expect from me that I can grant, in what concerns myself, a moment of attention to the thing called an amnesty. As France is now situated, a protest absolute, inflexible and eternal, is my duty. Faithful to the engagement which I made in my conscience, I will share to the last the exile of liberty. When liberty returns, I will return."
